

Doing what Jesus did – a fresh look at the gifts of the Spirit

by Alison Morgan

Doing what Jesus did takes a fresh look at the gifts of the Spirit, suggesting they are best regarded as a description of the ministry of Jesus, to be welcomed not as feathers in the caps of individuals but as shared resources given to enable the mission and ministry of the church. With lots of illustrations and plenty of real life stories and testimonies, this is a welcome and readable introduction to a topic about which little has been written in recent years. It includes a Bible study for use in small groups.

- “The best theologically rigorous study of the gifts of the Spirit that I have read. Especially because in this new book Alison Morgan, from long experience, includes sensible, practical advice on how to get going” - Preb John Collins
- “Alison writes with her usual clarity and insight about the work of the Holy Spirit, opening it up to us through the ministry of Jesus, building faith through many personal stories and correcting the misunderstandings that often surround this area of the Christian life. It will feed you and fan into flame the gifts within you” - Revd John McGinley, vicar, Holy Trinity Leicester.

A linguist and medievalist by background, the Revd Dr Alison Morgan has written a number of books, including an internationally recognised work on the poet Dante. She is best known for The Wild Gospel, now in its third reprinting. She is the editor of Rooted in Jesus, a discipleship course for Africa now in use in 10 countries, and co-author (with John Woolmer) of the ReSource healing course In His Name and (with Bill Goodman) of the Lent course Season of Renewal. After many years spent with her husband in parish ministry, Alison now works full time for ReSource as a thinker and writer. Alison and Roger live in Somerset with their three children.
